

Dr. Amr Elattar

Dr. Amr Elattar is an assistant professor at Kuwait International Law School, he graduated from Alexandria University, law school in 2006 among with “very good with honor” and among the top 10 at his class. He obtained his Master of Laws degree (LL.M) from George Washington University, law school in 2008 which focused on settlement of investment disputes. In 2012 he finished his doctoral degree (SJD) from Golden Gate University, law school in San Francisco California. His thesis discussed the problems regarding enforcement of foreign arbitral awards in Egypt, Gulf Cooperation Council Countries (GCC), and the United States. In 2013 he appointed as faculty member at Alexandria University, law school in Egypt. Dr. Elattar focuses his research on civil and commercial procedures, international arbitration, in addition to investment dispute resolution.